The Department of African American Studies at Princeton University has limited funds for the purpose of co-sponsoring events with other organizations and campus units. We invite requests for co-sponsorship of events and programs that have substantive relevance to the central mission of African American Studies: to draw on the insights and techniques of various disciplines in an effort to understand the experiences, history and culture of African-descended people. The center provides co-sponsorship funding for programming efforts that are intellectual/academic and cultural.
