Certificate Requirements

In addition to taking AAS 201, students seeking a certificate in African American Studies are required to take two core survey courses in African American Studies. These two courses must be selected from the literature (*AAS 353/ENG 352 African American Literature: Origins to 1910 and AAS 359/ENG 366 African American Literature: Harlem Renaissance to Present) and history (*AAS 366/HIS 386 African American History to 1863 and AAS 367/HIS 387 African American History from Reconstruction to the Present) survey courses, one of which must be a pre-20th century course.

Students must also take two additional courses in AAS, cross-listed by AAS, from our approved cognates list, or cognates approved by our Director of Undergraduate Studies, in order to qualify for the certificate. To get approval for cognate courses, you must submit the course syllabus for review. Students are strongly urged (not required) to select these additional courses from either the Race and Public Policy subfield, or the Global Race and Ethnicity subfield. Please note that PDF courses cannot be counted toward your certificate requirements (not including P/D/F Only courses).

The department further suggests (but does not require) that race figure centrally in the student's senior thesis.

* Pre-20th century course

Articulation Agreements

Through Articulation Agreements, AAS is proud to extend the opportunity for students to obtain a certificate in AAS while completing their major requirements in the English, History, Religion or Sociology Departments. These students would be required to take a total of five courses to fulfill the certificate requirement; AAS 201 plus three courses offered by their home department and cross-listed with AAS. In addition, they would need to take one additional course in AAS, cross-listed by AAS, or from our approved cognates list. If you choose this option, please note that you are an articulation agreement student on your application.
